

During this challenging season, when loss, depression, and suicide cast a shadow, let's pause and remember the heart of Christmas. God's gift of His Son, who humbled Himself to walk among us, offers a priceless, eternal gift of salva on.

As we celebrate this incredible gift, let's consider how our lives, transformed by following Jesus, can become a gift to those who haven't yet experienced His love.

How can we share the hope, peace, and joy we've found in Christ with those who may be struggling this Christmas?

December's Blog Highlights: Tips to Cope with the Holiday Blues (posting 12/9) and Finding Hope During the Holidays (posting 12/23)

Read Here

A sweet treat to share with family, friends, and neighbors!

Sharing holiday sweet treats with friends and neighbors is a joy of mine. Traditional Mexican wedding cookies, (I like calling them snowballs :-)) simple to make and delightful to savor, aren't just a holiday indulgence but a year-round treat!

Make this a gluten free and sugar free treat with these substitutions:

Powdered allulose for powdered sugar

Gluten free flour for the flour

This month on 12/13:
Sibling Bonds: Healing Through the Pages Part 2 with Keeper Catran-Whitney

Listen or Watch

This month on 12/27: Drumming for Healing with Guest Dori Staehle

Listen or Watch

Shop now

Holiday Shopping Guide!

This holiday season, align your gift-giving with your Christian values and support American patriots. Choose meaningful gifts from Christian and veteran-owned businesses, showcasing your faith and love for your country.

Want to change how you receive these emails?

you can update your preferences or unsubscribe from this list.